

THE OLD TOWN HALL IS TO BE RAZED; BELL IN TOWER IS TO BE PRESERVED; SEA SCOUTS ORDERED TO VACATE

Council Decides To Have Building Demolished—Will Preserve Bell For Which Building Was Erected—To Investigate Possibility of Getting WPA Money For Recreation Center—Trenton Avenue Group Protests Over Condition of Street

The old Town Hall is to be razed after the expiration of 30 days' notice which is to be served upon the Bristol Sea Scouts, now free tenants of the building. The bell in the tower, a donation to the borough and to house which the Town Hall was built, is to be preserved. Just how and where the bell is to be preserved was not decided by council, last night. In fact, there was some talk to the effect that the bell had disappeared. (A Courier representative visited the Sea Scouts after Council meeting and was assured that the bell is still there. Some of the mechanism of the clock disappeared during the time the building was vacant.)

A report of a meeting held by the Finance and Public Property Committee on May 4th, was presented to council by Chairman Clarence W. Winter. The report recommended that the Old Town Hall be demolished after 30 days notice had been given to the Sea Scouts.

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson spoke favorably upon the recommendation of the committee and said that so far as he had been able to ascertain the building has "no historic value."

"There is no reason it should be preserved to the detriment of the traveling public and the safety of children."

Council approved the report of the committee and the secretary was authorized to prepare specifications and get bids for the demolition of the building.

Borough Solicitor, Howard I. James, gave a written opinion in which he informed council that the submitted form of ordinance regulating the weighing of solid fuels, would be proper for the council to adopt after some changes had been made. The attorney stated that the submitted ordinance as presented by Councilman Clark was different from the one submitted by the resident coal dealers in that it did not discriminate between resident and non-resident coal dealers and provided the same regulation for all dealers in solid fuels.

Louis C. Spring, chairman of health, sanitation and poor committee, presented the agreement and bond between T. Ostroski and the borough providing for the collection of the borough garbage. The proper officers of council were authorized to affix their signatures and execute both papers.

Councilman Frank Pfeifer asked that the privilege of the floor be extended to Louis Monti, Trenton avenue resident. Mr. Pfeifer said that there was a delegation present from Trenton avenue which desired to protest over the neglect of that street insofar as repairs were concerned. "They have been given promises but nothing has ever been done," stated Mr. Pfeifer.

Mr. Monti, acting as spokesman for residents in the 1500-1600 blocks of Trenton avenue, protested over the condition of the street and said that he had resided there for 15 years and that nothing other than "placing a little dirt has ever been done to repair the thoroughfare."

Mrs. Jessie Campbell, another resident of the section, also spoke on the subject and said that she traveled the street four times daily and that she had to have her automobile wheels adjusted because of the deep holes in the street.

Mrs. Campbell also complained of the parking conditions existing at Pond street and Lincoln avenue. She was informed that the State had jurisdiction over Pond street.

Councilman Warner, chairman of Street and Highway committee, stated that his committee had listed Trenton avenue for improvement and that repairs would be made as soon as the committee could get to it.

Police committee reported eight arrests during the month. Four were held for court, two fined and two committed to the county prison. Three arc, 10 incandescent lights and one bridge light were reported out. Five doors were found open and 110 lodgers given shelter.

Councilman Clark informed council that at a recent Sports Night affair held in Bristol, it had been commented that Bristol does not have a proper hall in which to play basketball and conduct sports affairs. "Other towns are getting WPA money and erecting such buildings as recreation centers," he said.

Burgess Clifford L. Anderson commented favorably upon the suggestions of Mr. Clark and said that the matter should be investigated. He suggested that the question be referred to Finance and Public Property Committee in conjunction with the borough engineer.

Clarence W. Winter, chairman of finance and public property committee, moved that the proper officers of the borough be empowered to borrow such sums of money from the Farmers National Bank, as are necessary from time to time to meet the needs of the borough, until the money from the tax collections is received. The motion was adopted.

Communication was received asking permission to use the basement of the Beaver Fire Station as a place for visual education and art classes conducted by WPA. Request was referred to sewing Project Committee with power to act.

Sewing Project reported distribution of garments through the following agencies: Borough Council, 997; American Red Cross, 424; Public Assistance, 73, making a total of 1494.

Council granted exemption to Tax Collector, Louis B. Girton, for 1937 real estate taxes which were uncollected and turned over to County Commissioners, in the sum of $14,760.66.

Requests to place signs were received for: G. Asta and Sons, Pond street and Lincoln avenue; Radcliffe Street; Spencer & Sons, Radcliffe street; A. & P. Food Stores, Pond and Market streets; Girard Investment Co., 245 Mill street. All the requests were referred to street and highway committee with power to act.

Letter from Seventh Grade, Jefferson avenue school, expressing appreciation to council for the privilege of attending the April session, was received and filed. Another group of pupils from this section attended the meeting last night.

The meeting was called to order by Secretary, William B. Lefferts, who announced that Dr. J. Fred Wagner, president, would not be present and the secretary asked for nominations for a chairman pro tem. Mr. Winters was nominated but declined in favor of Louis C. Spring.

Councilmen absent were Wichser, Mitchener, and Roche.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

Mrs. Louise S. Plyer, Perkase RD, charged with involuntary manslaughter, retired growing out of the death of Dr. Katherine L. Storm, 81, well-known retired physician and truss manufacturer, who was killed in an automobile accident on April 25, was exonerated from all blame as driver of the car, at an inquest conducted by Corner Dr. H. Clayton Moyer, of Blooming Glen.

The rock pile faces the next tramps brought into the Bucks county courts from Morrisville or any other section of the county, President Judge Hiram H. Keller told 14 Negroes from "the jungle" in Morrisville, who were before the Court as railroad trespassers.

Judge Keller discharged the defendants on condition that they "get out of Bucks county and stay out." The defendants have been camping in what is known as "the jungle" along the railroad yard section. Judge Keller assured the Morrisville police and the railroad officers that the court will co-operate in making Bucks county an "unpopular place for tramps."

The Court remarked that most of the vagrants taken into custody, after being fingerprinted, are found to be old offenders, some of them with as many as 10 arrests.

FINDS CHANGING OF STREET GRADES COSTLY

Newtown Borough Council Gets Estimates On Some Work To Be Done

SOME WORK DELAYED

NEWTOWN, May 10.—Borough Council at the meeting discussed many things, fire house steel work, fire house phones, street levels and the high cost of correcting mistakes of other years. The improvement of the fire house, it was reported, was not completed because the steel erectors were on a strike for $15 a day.

An attempt to do something about the condition at the corner of Green and Congress streets revealed the fact that the roadbed there is about four-tenths inches above grade at certain places. Estimates of the cost of placing the street at grade ran from three to seven thousand dollars, the latter figure considerably more than one-half of the taxes raised by the borough in a year.

Since the fire house improvements now under way will cost nearly one-fourth of the year's taxes, Congress street will have to remain an elevated thoroughfare.

Treasurer W. Aubrey Merrick's report was the most encouraging part of the evening's program. With $1564.19 on hand at the beginning of the meeting, after paying $658.25 in bills the borough still has $905.94 in the treasury. This amount is sufficient to carry through ordinary expenses until the tax money for 1938 begins to come in.

Completing Arrangements For Third Dance Review

Thet Granzow Dancing Academy, Crofton, is completing arrangements for its third review. Many of the children have completed three years training, and promise to put on a review equal to anything seen on a metropolitan stage. This school has now attained a foremost position in the dancing field.

Their review of last year will long be remembered as one of the best stage shows ever produced in Bristol. The review this year has eight more numbers which means 40 more minutes of entertainment, and many of these performers are now qualified for professional stage work.

The costumes are the most colorful and elaborate, states the management of the Granzow school, which has spared no expense to make this "the greatest of all reviews."

The Granzow Dancing School has brought out some exceptional talent, and Miss Sara Granzow is devoting herself to developing this talent.

The pupils will produce Michael Fokins famous classic, "Sylphides," a toe ballet in which the entire toe class will take part.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

Twice In The Same Place

Washington, May 9. WHEN, in years to come, the present painful period is reviewed, the thing that will amaze students of history even more than the extraordinary economic silliness of the New Deal policies will be the unprecedented credulity of the people who permitted a superficial leader to take them in a direction which their common sense indicated was dangerous, and of which he, himself, had solemnly warned — to take them in that direction, not once but twice.

IT is, when the facts are considered, little short of incredible.

Intend to Stock Canal With Bass This Fall

G. A. French, Commissioner of Fisheries of Pennsylvania, has just notified John C. Johnson, secretary of the Bristol Fish & Game Protective Association, that it is the intention of the Fish Commission to stock the Canal with bass this fall.

This announcement will no doubt be of great interest to all followers of Izaak Walton in this vicinity since it will mark the first time that this stretch of water will be stocked with the large mouth bass.

The communication to Mr. Johnson indicates that the Canal will be stocked from Bristol to Morrisville, a distance of between eight and ten miles. This stretch is probably one of the best for fishermen in this vicinity. Bass have been taken from the Canal in past seasons but the supply is rapidly diminishing. It has been stocked on previous occasions with yellow perch.

Mr. Johnson and Ralph Ratcliffe, both well known Bristol sportsmen, recently made a survey of the section of the Canal to be stocked. They found that the water from Reardon's Lock to Bristol is in excellent condition. From Wheatshaf to Morrisville the water was found to be slightly cloudy, but still suitable for bass. The depth in most places was never under four feet of water. These men also found that the bottom of the canal, being gravel, is ideal for bass, and that there was abundant water vegetation.

C. R. Buller, chief fish culturist of the Fish Commission, told Johnson and Ratcliffe, "I drove along the canal about two weeks ago and found it full of water and believe that this section will be alright to stock. The section in the vicinity of New Hope was dry."

Margiotti Scheduled To Speak Here Tomorrow

Previous to coming to Bristol Mr. Margiotti will be at Doylestown where at 3.30 o'clock he will greet his supporters at the Fountain House.

Margiotti is making his tour of Bucks County under the sponsorship of Bucks County Margiotti-For-Governor Committee.

GERMANY OUT OF FAIR

Germany will not be represented in New York's World Fair next year. Dr. Hans Dilleckhoff, German ambassador to the United States, has informed our state department that Germany is withdrawing because of the large foreign exchange transactions which participation would involve. This notice terminates the contract which Dr. Johannes Borchers, German consul-general in New York, signed last December, reserving 100,000 square feet of exhibit space at the fair.

Germany loses thereby what trade prestige and advertising might have accrued from participation in the fair—although those benefits might have been diminished in Germany's case by boycott activities of groups representing Nazi racial and religious persecution. The World Fair suffers no material loss through German withdrawal because, as President Grover Whalen remarked in expressing formal regret, several other nations have been asking for space not previously available. Release of Germany's 100,000 square feet will permit assigning space to these applicants.

Germany's foreign exchange difficulties are Germany's own business—and Germany's own fault. They arise from the Nazi "managed economy" and from the X armament program. Germany has foreign exchange available for her war supplies and peace exhibits. So Germany naturally gives preference to the former.

From a diplomatic viewpoint, perhaps it is just as well that there will be no German exhibit at the fair to provoke possible "incidents" of the sort which have kept our state department fairly busy soothing wounded Nazi susceptibilities.

COLLUSAL!

Ship reporters still wonder if it was the real Samuel Goldwyn they interviewed Monday in New York, the Goldwyn of merry legend who tells other parties to the projected big deal "Include me out" or turns down a business proposal with "I won't tell you in two words—impossible." The new Goldwyn was returning from Europe with a message to the press, that there are too many inferior people in the American movie business, making too many inferior pictures for too much money.

The arch villain, in Goldwyn's mind, are overpaid writers, actors, and directors. He says nothing of members of the chairman of the board, at $200,000 a year apiece, but these are understood. The directors and other workers on the lot deserve nothing yet, he continues, but they are done in that. He knows writers in Hollywood who should be back in New York, writing letters.

The explanation for this unwelcome candor seems to be that Goldwyn has been looking at some new British and French films, costing up to $75,000 apiece to produce, though the equivalent would stand our Coast studios a million per. The time to catch the Goldwyns thinking aloud is before they get off the boat. Back in Hollywood for a week or so and they begin to think in accustomed terms, of colossal names in colossal casts, colossal productions with colossal messages—all of which run to very colossal costs.

Weekly Letter to Home-Makers

A Letter Written by Miss Edna M. Ferguson to Home-Makers will appear in each Tuesday's issue of The Bristol Courier. Through this medium Miss Ferguson will give many helpful hints to home-makers.

Dear Friends:

The two S's—salads and Summer, seem to go hand in hand.

Yet the experts declare that luncheon time is salad time, regardless of season. They repeat steadily:

"Instead of eating fattening food for lunch, the food you should have is a big bowl of green salad."

Even fresh, crisp dandelion greens, with a sour cream dressing blended with vinegar and mayonnaise, are being boomed as a salad novelty.

A small salad order is apt to be part of the dinner menu in every home and in restaurants and here is a wise rule for those who are tempted to overeat on the main dishes: Eat the salad course first! Then you are sure of getting the right food values and there will be no temptation to push the salad away because the appetite already is satisfied.

For the hostess who cooks and serves her own meal, there is a very practical reason for serving the salad course first. Plates of crisp salad may be on the table when the guests are seated, with appetizers such as sard-dines, or spreads on crackers or toast. Watercress, a section of tomato, hard-boiled egg, ripe olives and radishes make an attractive and simple salad plate. A few slivers of raw carrot add to the color scheme. Make the individual portions small, when the salad is served first.

Delicious in a combination vegetable salad are slices of avocado and tomatoes. This salad, recommended for reducing diets, may be served simply with a dressing of lemon juice and salt.

Lemon juice with sugar is suggested for a salad of lettuce with grated carrots and grated apple, which is popular with children. Lemon juice, or a combination of lemon and orange juice and seasonings goes with bananas, apples, pears, avocados, with dates or raisins. In such salads, lemon juice prevents discoloration.

Try this Salad Marinade, which makes about one-half cup: Six tablespoons lemon juice; three tablespoons oil; one teaspoon salt; one-fourth teaspoon pepper. Mix thoroughly. Add one-half teaspoon onion juice, if desired, or rub bowl in which marinade is made with a cut clove of garlic.

For a French fruit dressing, which is liked with light salads, combine three tablespoons each lemon and orange juice; four tablespoons oil; one-fourth teaspoon salt and one tablespoon sugar.

Such fruit dressings aid digestion and supply vital food elements that counteract tooth decay and gum troubles. They furnish laxative bulk of the best type and stimulate the appetite. Fruit sugar actually does furnish quick energy and promotes the retention of calcium and phosphorus.

The fruit salad plate seems to be associated more with luncheon than with dinner, although there is no reason why it should not replace a fruit cup as a first course. Fruit salad served in orange cups is gay and easy to prepare.

One orange will make two cups if the meat is scooped from the halves with a sharp knife or spoon. Flute or scallop edge, using scissors. Or make a chrysanthemum cup, using the entire orange. With scissors, cut orange skins three-quarters of the way down in strips one-third inch wide, being careful not to break strips apart. Remove orange meat. Curl each strip of peel a trifle inward.

Banana slices, diced orange and pineapple, strips of apple and a few strawberries or cherries make up a real party treat. A few drops of lemon juice will add zest and keep the color, too. For a sweeter combination, cut up a few marshmallows, letting them stand with the pineapple in advance. Other suggestions are the addition of nut meats, cantaloupe balls, grapefruit, sliced peaches or pears.

One beauty counselor advised recently: "If you are nervous, or over-tired include extra amounts of apples, lettuce, liver or liver extract, raw carrots, raw cabbage, spinach juice, black cherries, gelatin and milk in your regular diet." That sounds like another boom for salads.

To vary the fruit juice dressing, try a "Vitamin D Mayonnaise," so named because of the sunshine egg yolks:

Two egg yolks; one tablespoon lemon juice, one cup olive oil; one teaspoon salt, dash paprika. Beat egg yolks, add lemon juice, salt and paprika. Add oil one drop at a time, stirring constantly.

New fashions in fruit salads emphasize decorative effect. Choose salad greens that provide a color contrast of light and dark green, like romaine, endive or chicory, watercress, the inside leaves of raw spinach and parsley sprigs. More of the green should appear at the back of the plate, with the fruit displayed at the front and the plate edge showing as a frame.

BRISTOL

Claudette Colbert and Gary Cooper form a brilliant new comedy team, while the direction of Ernst Lubitsch brings out the punch of the French background, in "Bluebeard's Eighth Wife," the picture of life among Europe's smart set, which Paramount presented last night at the Bristol Theatre.

The story, adapted from the famous play of Alfred Savoir, tells about a much-married American multi-millionaire who is subdued and put into a strait-jacket by his eighth wife, whom he marries for a new thrill. Miss Colbert is the same flip, ingenuous girl who made screen history in last year's "I Met Him in Paris." Cooper, as the philandering American, plays opposite her in a role that fits him down to the last stripe on his last pajama.

After becoming the bride of the much-married financier, Miss Colbert, a penniless French aristocrat, starts out on a campaign to bring him to his knees and humble his pride for the first time. A score of Europe's gay spots, including the Riviera, the Tyrol, Venice, Vienna and Paris, form the battleground, while the bride's weapons are coolness, indifference and stubbornness. No general in history used his tactics to greater advantage, and before the honeymoon is over, Cooper is her obedient servant.

There is here a lightness of touch and spontaneity of humor which puts the picture out in front of other screen comedies of the season.

'FLIT' PIEO WILL DEFEND HONORS IN ROPE CLIMB EVENT

Bristol Youth Will Take Part In Big Competition On Saturday

TO BE HELD IN PHILA.
Meet Will Bring Together Outstanding Contestants From All Sections

(By Louis Tomlinson)

Competing against the nation's select gymnastic stars, Roman "Flit" Pieo, Bristol Youth, will again enter the competition in defense of the title which he now possesses in the rope climb event.

The annual gymnastic meet, which brings together the outstanding individuals in this field of athletic competition from all over the country, is sponsored by the Amateur Athletic Union, and will be held this year in Philadelphia. However, since there are so many entrants in the dozen or more events to be held, two sites have been chosen so as to get all the events over on the one day, which is Saturday. They will be held at Convention Hall and the Turners Athletic Club, West Philadelphia, with the events being divided equally between the two places.

At Convention Hall, the six events scheduled to take place there are: 1, horizontal high bar; 2, parallel bars; 3, long horse; 4, side horse; 5, callisthenics; 6, all-around events. At the Turners' gym the contestants will work on the following pieces: 1, rings; 2, mats (tumbling); 3, rope (rope climb); 4, clubs (Indian club swinging); 5, all-around events. Of course, since the rope climb event is to be held at the Turners' gym in the Northwest section of the Quaker City, that is where "Flit" will defend his title on Saturday afternoon.

Pieo, who received first instructions in this event under Coach Bill Dougherty as a member of Bristol High's notable gym team several seasons ago, first entered the competitions back in 1935 as a sophomore at B. H. S. That year he "rang the bell" of the 25-foot rope in the fast time of 6.4 seconds to become the new A. A. U. rope climb champion as he knocked off .8 seconds from the old record that stood previous to Flit's feat. "Flit" surprised all, including himself, by capturing the highly prized honors.

However, as a junior, in 1936, Roman missed the coveted crown by one-tenth of a point, coming in behind Harrison Houston of Princeton, who also clipped the record set by "Flit" the year before. Houston climbed the rope in 6.1 seconds while the best Bristol's entrant could do was 6.2, which, of course, was good for the number two spot on the nation's list of rope climbers for that year. In both '35 and '36 the meet was held in New York City. Last year, Pieo came back to again regain his lost crown in the meet held at Pittsburgh on May 8th. And what's more, he again broke the record when he scaled the rope to ring the bell in 6 seconds flat, which was one-tenth of a second better than the '36 champion could do and two-tenths of a second faster than his best time which was also in '36. Flit was then a senior at Bristol High and sacrificed his big trip to Washington to enter the contest and was rewarded through his own efforts by taking the title again. Houston, the '36 champion, was second to "Flit" last year, while an Ohio University athlete took third place.

At the present time, Bristol's gift to the gymnastic world, is attending the Stroudsburg State Teachers College in East Stroudsburg, Pa. He entered there last Fall after changing from Lock Haven Teachers College where he first enrolled last September. Pieo, together with another Freshman, is the only Freshman to "make" the squad this year, and that is in itself a rare feat for a Freshman at that school.

The team, under the capable supervision of Coach Oscar Lilpenstein, made a very successful tour of three states demonstrating their gymnastic skill and ability, in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, as well as Long Island. Having no competition the Teachers put on these exhibitions throughout the winter months and just completed their last week.

It was on one of these tours and exhibitions that "Flit" pulled a ligament in his wrist which may handicap his chances of repeating his victory of last year. It has definitely kept him out of the ring competition which he entered last year and performed one of the most outstanding "still figures" on the rings of any other competitor in the meet. He damaged his member in performing a "flying pike" (twisting in air), on the parallel bars.

Invaluable Players

By BURNLEY

Every year, the most valuable players of each league are nominated by a committee of experts. Last season, Joe Medwick and Charley Gehring won the awards, and we will not quarrel with the verdict. Gehring's selection was probably a sympathy choice, since everyone knew that Joe Dimaggio was really the American loop's top player of 1937.

Proof of the inestimable value of Dimaggio and Medwick to their respective teams was forthcoming this spring, just in case you needed to be convinced.

The world's champion Yankees, supposedly an aggregation of murderous sluggers, were singularly inept at the plate during the weeks that Dimaggio was absent from the line-up. With Joe missing, the McCarthymen looked like a mediocre club in their exhibition games and in the first few contests of the regular campaign.

When Medwick missed several April games due to a lumbago attack, the Cardinals were really helpless. They suffered a bad losing streak, and were a total loss at bat. For twenty-seven straight innings, the Gashouse Gang went scoreless, which proves that Medwick's mace provides the real explosives in the Cards' power attack.

Without Dimaggio it is doubtful whether the Yanks could repeat. Without Medwick the Cards probably would drop right through the National League cellar into the "Three-Eye" Loop.

TREVOSE SCORES EASY VICTORY OVER EDGELY

EDGELY, May 10.—Coming up with a big 9-run rally in the second inning of their ball game with Edgely Junior High, Trevose scored an easy win over the home team and made the sailing for Albert Despo, Trevose hurler, smooth throughout the tilt. The final count read, 13-3. The winners added one in the fifth and after Edgely put on a futile 3-run spurge in the lower fifth, Trevose came back with three more in the final session following a scoreless sixth.

the large crowd was pleased with the type of ball-playing exhibited by the two clubs. Tonight another single fray is scheduled with Grundy's playing the Odd Fellows at Edgely. Another season's match is expected with Ralph Nareisi twirling for boy boys boys and "Jake" Paul doing mound duty for the Oddies.

It was announced last night by President Thomas Juno that the Rohm and Haas-Superior game scheduled for Leedom's field, Thursday night, has been shifted to Grundy's diamond as Leedom's field is not quite ready to be used.

mains that there are now six million families, or twenty million persons, or one-sixth of the whole population on relief of one sort or another. His Budget Director, Mr. Bell, though rather cloudy in his estimates, tells Congress that in 1939 the deficit will be approximately $3,709,000,000. Less than two years ago we were told by the President the budget would be brought into real balance by that date.

INSTEAD, governmental expenses are now—before the new spending starts—at the highest level in the whole peacetime history of the country and Federal finances are virtually out of control. All thought of retrenchment has vanished. Except from a futile minority even the suggestion is no longer heard in Congress, and that today this week is taking up the new pump-priming program, an exact counterpart of the one which has so tragically failed. Though it can be justified by neither reason nor logic and wholly disregards the lessons of experience, for various political and personal reasons, it probably will be approved by Congress. The proposed expenditures in an election year present an irresistible temptation to members of Congress who must fight for re-election and re-election.

YET, there is hardly a thoughtful man in the Administration or outside who believes in the efficacy of another spending spree. In their hearts, the better-grade allies of the President know it is not only futile but worse. In private conversation they do not hesitate to say so, which makes their acquiescence and support the less defensible. As Congress, with complete disregard of the proven realities, prepares again to give the country a dose of the same sickening medicine it had before, it is worth noting that nowhere is there to be found fiercer denunciation of the policy he is now pursuing than in the handsome volumes of the President's public papers and addresses, now on sale at the small price of $15. (What, by the way, has become of that "worthy public purpose" to which it was said the proceeds of the newspaper syndication of the President's press conferences were to be devoted?)

SELECTING more or less at random from his pre-election speeches in these volumes, here are some quotations from Mr. Roosevelt which would seem peculiarly applicable to his present proposals: "If," he said, in 1932, "the nation is living within its income, its credit is good. If in some crisis it lives beyond its income for a year or two, it can borrow temporarily at reasonable rates. But if, like a spendthrift, it throws discretion to the winds and is willing to make no sacrifice in spending, if it extends its taxing to the limit of the people's power to pay and continues to pile up deficits, then it is on the road to bankruptcy."

IN THE same volume, this, too, is to be found from Mr. Roosevelt: "I regard reduction in Federal spending as one of the most important issues of the campaign. In my opinion, it is the most direct and effective contribution Government can make to business." And, finally, in his message to Congress, March 10, 1933, after calling attention to the accumulated deficit, Mr. Roosevelt said: "With the utmost seriousness, I point out the profound effect of this fact upon our national economy. It has contributed to the recent collapse of our banking structure. It has accentuated the stagnation of the economic life of our people. It has added to the ranks of the unemployed. Upon the unimpaired credit of the Government rests the safety of deposits, the security of insurance policies, the activity of industrial enterprise, the value of our agricultural products and the availability of employment."

THE ONLY thing more remarkable than this second-time insistence by the man who voiced these convictions upon a policy which nullifies every word he uttered and already has failed once, is the supineness of a Congress in permitting him to lure it again down a path it knows—and which he has publicly said—leads to destruction. What they are about to do just does not make sense. When the record is finally written, this, coupled with the strange popular slowness to see through the sham of the whole business, will be harder to understand than anything else. It is now.
